

Didn't land that offer yet? Here are some suggestions

Sometimes even our best efforts will not produce our intended results. While there is still time left to secure an internship for the summer, it helps to have a backup plan in case you end up falling short of your goal to secure one.

There are so many options. Any job, possibly in retail or food service, is a great way to develop transferable skills to highlight on your resume. You can also choose to volunteer your time to a cause that is important to you.

Another option is to acquire some new skills this summer. Learn AutoCAD 3D or brush up on your presentation skills to prepare for interviewing with employers. You can also take a couple classes here at UIC to get closer to graduation.

Most importantly, you want to be productive this summer. When you talk to recruiters this fall, they will want to know how you spent your summer. Your answer should show how you were benefitting your future. Be sure to have fun too!
