

Employer Spotlight: TIBCO

Over the summer, the Engineering Career Center visited several companies to build stronger relationships; leading to more jobs, internships, and on-campus events for UIC engineering and computer science students. Engineering Career Center Associate Director Michelle Johnson visited with TIBCO at their human resources offices in Denver to learn more about their analytics and data sharing software.

Their software appears in Amazon.com's personal product recommendations and FedEx's package tracking system. TIBCO is based in Palo Alto, but has an outpost office in Naperville; employing over 4,200 people across all offices.

As a result of Michelle's meeting, TIBCO will be recruiting on campus at UIC this semester! Catch their workshop, "Tackling the Technical Interview with TIBCO" on Wednesday, January 31st at 5pm in the CS Lounge. TIBCO will be providing tips on tackling coding interviews and raffling off copies of the popular coding interview how-to guide: "Cracking the Coding Interview."

TIBCO will also be attending the Engineering Tech Career Fair on February 28th and has active full-time jobs and internships posted on UICcareers. International students: they want to recruit you too! Don't miss your chance to meet with TIBCO on campus this semester!
