

Employer Spotlight:

Exponent will be on-campus this Wednesday, April 18!

Exponent is an American engineering and scientific consulting firm, with a multidisciplinary team of scientists, physicians, engineers, and business consultants who perform research and analysis in more than 90 technical disciplines. Currently, Exponent has no less than 165 position openings for masters and PhD level candidates in nearly all of their 20 domestic and 7 international offices, spanning roughly 90 separate disciplines. Exponent considers applicants that are authorized to work under their OPT and will sponsor exceptional candidates.

In the Chicago offices, there are at least 8 entry-level positions available for Ph.D. candidates in the fields of Mechanical, Chemical, EECS, and Materials & Corrosion Engineering.

Stephen Garner, from Exponent will be leading the presentation. Stephen earned his PhD from UIC in Mechanical Engineering in 2011, where he conducted research with Prof. Brezinsky; he also received his Bachelor of Science degree from UIC (ME) in 2006. Stephen holds his P.E. and CFEI and is a Senior Engineering with Exponent.
